ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and system for automatically feeding animals uses identifiers on the animals and controls access to one or more food sources to control the amount consumed by each animal. The system is controlled by a programmable processor and can provide or prevent access and cut off access once provided based on the particular animal seeking food.

5